Dear Parents,

Hello September and fall weather! We had a lot of information passed out last week. You may turn in the RSVP for Grandparents'/Special Friends' Day and Movie Night.

I will need your child's permission slip to attend the Riley Day Parade of Flowers.

You can watch your child in the parade around 12:30 in downtown Greenfield. Finally, you may download/print your child's NWEA report for Math, Reading, and ELA on the PowerSchool portal. I will discuss and go over the report with you during conference too. Your child may have received a Response to Intervention notice. Your child received this notice if they scored below the 20th percentile on NWEA or other grade-level assessments. We have several interventions in place to help all children meet grade-level expectations and advance in the areas of Reading and Math. Please let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

Your child will take home their iPad on Monday to check for connectivity and complete a short assignment on Google Classroom. Also, they will take their first unit test in Reading on Thursday and Friday. They will have a short spelling test on Friday as well. The list contains ten review words from unit 1.

Please visit the following link to register and sign up for a conference time:
